Qualifications

Please describe your relevant analytical skills.

In college I studied electrical engineering and computer science. Both degrees stress data analysis. My current job involves collecting data on advertising campaigns and analyzing that data to find patterns indicating interests that can be tied to neighborhoods and interests. In the past I led a research team analyzing data collected from computer networks to determine whether applications were performing as they should and to spot anomalous traffic such as viruses and misuse. These positions required strong analytical skills to determine what information to gather and how to use it.

Please describe your ability to be impartial.

I believe that members of the redistricting commission have a duty to see that all Austin citizens have a voice in city elections, regardless of party, status, or heritage. My scientific background taught me to study issue objectively. Those strengths will help me analyze demographics and geography to impartially apply the guidelines in the commission's charter to create districts that represent all of Austin's citizens fairly.

Please describe your appreciation for the City of Austin's diverse demographics and geography.

Austin is blessed with an incredible diversity both in demographics and geography in a small area. The beautiful arid canyons and scenic vistas of west Austin are amazing. The steep hills remind me of San Francisco. On the east side are green rolling hills similar to the north Louisiana hill country where I was raised. The highland lakes extending across the city provide fantastic recreation and beauty.

Austin has an amazing collection of people mixed throughout. Multiple universities bring in top students locally and internationally including my son at the University of Texas. The startup community is so vibrant that we have earned the nickname "Silicon Hills." Austin deserves the title "Live Music Capitol of the World" with all the artists who reside here. My neighborhood has an eclectic mix of people with a large number from India and Asia. This variety helps make Austin so unique.

With various volunteer organizations I have been able to work with people across the city including building a wheelchair ramp in east Austin, building a Chinese church in north Austin, passing out food to the needy, creating a strategic plan for Bridging Apps (a non-profit serving special needs kids and their families), and creating a business plan for Front Steps (the organization that runs the ARCH: Austin Resource Center for the Homeless). These activities enabled me to engage with a wide variety of people in Austin.

Please provide any other information you wish to be considered during the selection of the most qualified applicants for the Commission.

The 10-one plan offers Austin voters a much more representative city council. As a member of the redistricting commission I would work diligently to produce a plan that would treat all citizens fairly. This is a great opportunity to serve our fellow residents. Thank you for considering my application for this commission.
